

Greetings to all my seniors !!

My name is Ishika Sharma. Today I am here to talking about hallucination, imagination, illussion, etc. So hallucination is a perception of something that is not actually here. I just wondered about it that sometimes I also hallucinate something like heard a sound of feet in my room that someone is coming to me and this is the very common hallucination which we all once in a while hallucinate, also sometimes we imagined that someone is chasing us, taking it forward, sometimes we feel some sensations like our body feels being mutilated, i.e. twisted, torn, or disembowelled . So these all things are very habitual that we hallucinate things and then accept them as true. Most of us have heard a common example of hallucination, there is a number drawn on the floor, i.e ,six or nine and two persons are there one said this is six another one said this is nine so this is a hallucination that what we think is what we see. So herewith just think about it that what if everything we see is just a hallucination caused by inhaling oxygen, it sounds something unimaginable but is it possible? No, this is not possible because our mind hallucinate those things what we think, what we fear, but in reality those things never happened nor will, those things happen only in our mind. But if everything we see is just a hallucination then we will able to see anything which we want to hear, see, feel,etc. like i want to see the stars so i just have to imagine the stars and they are in front of me. So we will be able to see,hear,feel,etc. anything we want and life would become splendid and everything would be so easy for us. But unfortunately this is not possible because if everything we see is just a hallucination or our illussion then life would mean nothing, life would just a imagination world to us just like a fairy tale. So if we think practically about this then this is not possible that everything around us is our imagination or illusion. So all I can say in the end including all the things which i was talking about above is just that life is not a hallucination or a imagination world that what we are thinking or what we want come in front of us. Hallucinate something is different thing and hallucinate our real life is bit different thing. We all imagine things which could not be possible so this is not possible that everything we see is hallucinating. I hope I finalized my thoughts regarding this nicely.

Thank You !!
